1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 1, 1861. It is a formal communication, and it is the first of its kind in the history of the United States. The President, James Buchanan, is writing to the Congress, and he is doing so in a very formal and dignified manner. He is addressing the Congress as "My Countrymen," and he is speaking to them as a man who is responsible for the welfare of the entire nation. He is discussing the state of the Union, and he is pointing out the various problems that are facing the country. He is also discussing the role of the President, and he is explaining how he is going to carry out his duties. The letter is a very important document, and it is one that should be read by every citizen of the United States.
